

From: UCLA Student Affairs and Graduate Division

Sent: Tuesday, April 23, 2019 3:27 PM

Subject: April 26th Career Development Conference for Graduate Students & Postdocs | Register Today

UCLA

Graduate Division Student Affairs

Dear UCLA Graduate Students and Postdoctoral Scholars,

It is our pleasure to invite you to the UCLA Career Development Conference for Graduate Students and Postdoctoral Scholars, which will be held on Friday, April 26, 9:30 a.m. — 6:30 p.m. in the Ackerman Grand Ballroom. Whether you are early in your graduate degree program, or about to complete your training and go on the job market, this event will help you cultivate skills and professional networks to prepare you for the next steps.

The Career Development Conference provides opportunities to explore topics such as leveraging LinkedIn, building persuasive resumes, resiliency and personal strengths, academic job market preparation, and exploring the intersections of identity and career. In addition, attendees will have the opportunity to meet with 100+ advanced degree alumni and prospective employers throughout the day from a variety of backgrounds and disciplines. The complete list of alumni and employers can be found here.

Space is limited. Attendance is free, but pre-registration is required for all attendees. Breakfast, lunch, and happy hour are included! Registered attendees can leave and return throughout the day as their schedules permit. Please use this link to register today: <https://career.ucla.edu/Conference/Register>.

We look forward to seeing you on April 26.

Robin L. Garrell
Vice Provost for Graduate Education
Dean, Graduate Division

Monroe Gorden, Jr.
Vice Chancellor
Student Affairs