UCLA is committed to providing a fair process for both Complainants and Respondents involved in cases being investigated by the Title IX Office. We understand that Respondents may have questions or concerns about the University’s processes, and may want to access additional resources. Respondent Services are available to provide assistance to students who are respondents in a Title IX investigation. These services include guidance and coordination with the investigation and appeal process, as well as referrals to available campus and community resources. Please contact respondents@ucla.edu for more information and assistance.

What is Respondent Services?
1. Respondent Services can help a Respondent navigate the UCLA Title IX process, up to and including the appeal hearing process. A Respondent Services provider is available to serve as the Respondent’s advisor during the Title IX process.
